Q&A

- What types of clients do you represent?

Many of my clients are financial institutions, including banks, mortgage servicers, and insurers. I also regularly represent individuals and small companies.

- What do you find most exciting about your work?

Without a doubt the people I meet and assist are the most exciting part of my work.

- What legal challenges are you looking forward to tackling in the future?

Since the financial crises, federal regulation in the banking industry has exploded. The legal landscape changes daily as new laws and regulations are promulgated, old ones expanded, and court-created doctrines evolve. Understanding and reacting to these changes in the law is exciting, and I look forward to tackling them.

- Which Courts or agencies do you most often appear before on behalf of your clients?

I most often appear before the state and federal courts in both Florida and Georgia.
